Introduction

Launched in 2014, the Hong Kong Construction Industry Council have set up a Carbon Labelling Scheme for Construction Products (CIC CLS) to provide verifiable and accurate information on the carbon footprint of construction materials for users to make informed decision thereby to combat climate change in Hong Kong. This material coverage includes cement, rebar, structural steel and ready mix concrete and the Carbon Labelling Scheme is linked to Beam Plus under the Material Aspect category.

One of the steel manufactures "Siam Yamato Steel" has received an "Outstanding" from the CIC for structural steel due to their low embodied carbon of construction material and will be in Hong Kong on November 5th to give a seminar on how to use recycled steel to produce high quality steel while also reducing embodied carbon and global greenhouse gas emissions. The Hong Kong Construction Industry Council will also be making a presentation on their Carbon Labelling Scheme at this event.
